

Friday A. M.

Dear Jessie & Alex, Have tried for several days to get a little note out to you, to say how sorry we all are here at your great loss. We know how you feel and there isn't much anyone can do, as far as saying anything in words for losing two so dear at the one time is almost all one can take, Poor Aunt Maggie was thinking of you up to the last, she told me on the Thurs' Eve when the girls & I were over, that maybe you were worse off than you had let on, Little did she know just how much you were going thru with, in her last few hours here, and I think it was best she didn't know, as she did suffer a great deal and she last and was brave thru it all, I don't think any of us realize just how much she did suffer, as she was so patient about it all.

I talked with Margaret last Eve, and she has moved over with her Dad, she has rented her house furnished for about 3 mths, then by that time they will know how things go, she was saying Florence & her family haven't been back since they went home the night of the funeral, that Florence had called George up and wants him to go to a Bingo game tonight, but George said he wouldn't go, unless Margaret went along.

I guess Lily is really mad about the whole thing, as she expected to be the ones to move in with George, so I don't know how the whole thing will end.

Well Jessie How is the shoulder. I do hope it is coming along good, and that it heals up, without any more trouble, We were awfully pleased to have Jeanne & Jim stay with us, even tho the visit was short. Tell Jean I rec'd her little note of thanks, the kids all know they are most welcome anytime

they feel like coming, Hope Jim can get to stay with you until after the Holiday How is Red & Dot. hope all goes smooth for them, and their bundle from Heaven.
Well Jessie & Alex. don't feel too bad for at least you know where Bud is and one consolation is you have him nearby.
Love & Best Wishes to all.
Jessie & all